“ RIP Aunt Damie. I wasn't as close to you as the rest of my family. However, I remember you driving my mom around when I was a small child. A female driving was so foreign to me, and I wondered if I could ever be so independent! How odd that seems now, but it was so pioneering to me back then! My Mom viewed you as a mother figure. You were a pillar for your brothers and sisters, whether you wanted that honor or not! LOL. Your house was always filled with life and a hang out place for relatives. You were a special lady.
