“ I remember Marwil as a classmate at AHS in the 60s - he was on the small side with a shock of unruly brown hair and an engaging personality.In those days, many of us created artificial distinctions between the "town" kids and the "farm" kids. Marwil helped me to abandon that stereotype-he had a spark of genius about him,an intellect that was apparent,although he was a kind and self-effacing person.I have always remembered him and wondered about his path.I send my deepest condolences to his family.

“ Dear Gillette Family,
It is so difficult to let go of someone that you love as dearly as you did Marwil. His memory will linger in your minds and hearts for as long as you live. Death is an enemy that we all face sooner or later. It is even described as an enemy in the Bible, but the Bible also tells us that there is a hope for all who have been taken by this enemy. Jesus assured us of a resurrection at John5:28,29. At that amazing time our tears of grief will be transformed into tears of joy. May this promise offer you a measure of comfort at this difficult time.
