“ *Always a wonderful woman. Aunt Pat as I knew her was my dad's (Jack Rifenberg) cousin. At least I think it was a confusing childhood they had. But my whole family loved her so much. Wish I took the time to go see her. Uncle Vernie love you and sending big hugs. Love,
Penny Rifenberg Baldwin.*

“ Aunt Patty was so easy to talk to. Straight forward and would answer any questions I had. I took my father to see her several times before he died. It was like yesterday for them. The hug took all those years away. They were kids again. Smiling and with the looks in their eyes that only close siblings had. My father loved all his sisters but of course Patty being the youngest, that made her special. He taught her how to ride a bike and she taught him how to wreck a bike. But he fixed it and they moved on. Life got in the way over the years and they didn't see each other for some time. But that love never faded for them. As we drove away he hollered out the window , bye honey. And she waved back. Great little time to remember. We love you Aunt Patty and wish the best for Vernon, Sherry, Debbie, Lil' Vernon and those who will miss her. May the Lord himself greet you and God Bless. Louisa

“ Aunt Patty was easy to love. I tried to call her a couple times a month just to see how she was. I took my father (her brother Bill) to see her a couple times before he died. It was yesterday for them. All the years melted with the hug from her big brother. The love that they had as little ones shone as if it was still yesterday. A nice thing to see. My father loved all his sisters equally. They all had a special place. Patty was the youngest girl and of course that made her very special to him. He taught her how to ride a bike - she taught herself how to wreck a bike as the story went. Dad didn't really care, he fixed it and they moved on. I just thought it was a cute story to be remembered. Their relationship was special even when away from each other for years. Bless you Patty and may you be welcomed home and loved as you were here. your niece, Louisa
